

Project Talents Circular Innovation Programs

To accelerate the change towards the circular economy, Innoboost offers Innovation Programs that will help speed up circular business creation while de-risking by constantly engaging and validating with the innovation community.

To host these programs we are looking for self-starters, proactive, committed, and entrepreneurial project managers. To Innovate, Validate and Co-create.

By nature, you are a

- Community-manager: you understand the human behavior of every target group and know how to influence this to guide them to better, more sustainable choices and habits.
- Business Experimenter: you define the best business experiments to learn fast and you set up these experiments.
- Researcher: you collect and analyze the data from different sources to learn what works best and anticipate the next step in the innovation program.
- Creative facilitator: you prepare, script and facilitate (face2face/virtual/hybrid) co-create sessions to inspire participants to dream big and think practical and according to these principles you will set up and produce engagement campaigns, on our digital platform.
- Project manager: You lead the steps approach and are responsible for top quality within the budget and timing constraints. You plan resources and brief talent, you provide input for commercial quotes while keeping an eye on the outcome. In short: you act as a genuine Scrum Master.
- Communicator: you are good at building compelling stories to convince people and you present your ideas in an inspirational way.

You will work with a collective of innovation professionals, based in Europe and Asia. This implies that you know your way around online collaboration tools like Teams, Miro, Google as well as services like SurveyMonkey, SendinBlue, and on our digital platform.

Conditions

Work Experience: 2-4 years
Education: HBO/ WO
Field of study: Business administration, Communications, Psychologie, Innovation

Has your interest been aroused? We are curious about you, send your resume and motivation to cornelissen@innoboost.nl